At Blessed Edward Oldcorne Catholic College we held 'Ambition Fortnight' in October. The event provided Year 11 pupils with the opportunity to investigate and explore the wide variety of Post 16 options available to them.

A substantial number of our leavers who progress to study A-levels are choosing to travel further afield and study at King Edward VI College. We were pleased to welcome them to talk to our Year 11 students. Students were interested to find out about the opportunities they offer and were impressed to hear about the extremely wide choice of A-level subjects at King Edwards. We heard how they support students to develop academically, creatively and personally. Students were also provided with information about learning support, financial support and travel support available. Many of our students are hoping to attend university and they were interested to hear about the preparation King Edward's students receive to assist them to achieve at university

Students had opportunity to ask questions about individual courses and were provided with details of open events to attend.

This was a positive event which inspired students through providing them information about the broad range of opportunities that are available to them.
